

Anesthesia free dental cleanings cannot get under the gumline and is not going to help prevent or treat dental disease. Don't be afraid of anesthesia. I am not.

Good dental health can prolong my life, it does in people too.

Removing teeth that are diseased helps me feel better. I will not miss the teeth. I will have a better life without diseased teeth.

Brushing my teeth is the best way to reduce and prevent dental disease.

Dental disease is very common. 80% of us have dental disease by 3 years of age.

Eating is not a good measure of pain. I will continue to eat and not show signs of dental pain even when the disease is advanced. When my choices are starvation or pain, I will choose pain and never ever complain about it.

Dogs like me get periodontal disease or breakdown of bone around the teeth, not cavities like people. This means that when there is redness of my gums plaque is already damaging the structures around my teeth.

Small dogs like me are more prone to dental disease because I have just as many teeth as a large dog (42), they are not proportioned for my size, and my jaw bone is small.

For more info head to:
Client Resources

HAPPYPAWSVETS.COM